WILL RESIGN IS DENIEDAdministration Leaders Will Call for a Vote at Monday's Session

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Mar. 4.—The next step in the president's fight to dispose of the armed ship agitation has been postponed until Monday. Administration leaders in the house decided not to insist on a vote today. The rules committee meets this afternoon to frame a rule to table the McLeary resolution to warn Americans off armed ships of the belligerents. The administration forces plan to dispose of it by a substantial majority the first thing Monday, aroused by publication of reports that the president is considering resigning. Secretary Tamm said in a statement, "American newspapers that would publish a story of that kind in a situation like the one that now confronts America dishonor itself."

MUSIC CLUB HOLDS
ITS FIRST MEETINGACCOUNT OF THE PROCEEDINGS
AS REPORTED BY ONE OF THE MEMBERS

The eighth grade Music club held its first meeting last night in the eighth grade school room. The attendance was large. The Music club has made the best record in the school for increasing its membership.

The officers are: Mary Connors, president; Ogden Monahan, vice president and Theodore Fottler, secretary. We are carrying a paper through the four societies which we call the "Weakly Worry Knot." At each meeting we elect two or three editors. These editors write the paper and read it to those present at each meeting. This being the first meeting there was no paper to be read. The editors that were elected to write the paper for the next meeting are: Theodore Fottler, chairman, and Fred Ritter and Paul Swamy, helpers.

A program committee was elected as follows: Clyde Pettigrove, Vera Parker and Tim Ford.

The meeting ended by starting the practice of some of the songs we are to sing at the play that will be given by the eighth grade very soon.

After the meeting the 2 boy teams of our room played a game of indoor baseball, and very many were present at the game. The score was 7 to 12 in favor of the second team.

LONDON, Mar. 4.—The German admiralty has announced the sinking by a German submarine of two French auxiliary cruisers and the British patrol boat, Paris. It unofficially asserts that the German claim of sinking two auxiliary cruisers "off Havre" is unfounded.

The German assault on Verdun has halted for a second time in the Douaumont section. This was occasioned by facing a formidable counter attack by the French in their effort to retake Douaumont village. The clash of arms is desperate. Berlin mentions the capture of more than a thousand prisoners.

An Austrian submarine in the Mediterranean sank the Italian liner Glave. No Americans were aboard the French steamer Lakme, which was sunk in the Bay of Biscay. It is believed by a mine. Six lives were lost.

Mr. Bryan said upon his arrival that he had nothing to do with the armed ship fight. The senate army bill proposes to increase the peace strength of the regular army to 178,000, to federalize the national guard at a peace strength of 217,000 and to create a federal volunteer army of reserves.
